Binary Cash Bot, Binary options one of the most unique forms of investment option while not very common, however it carries a great deal of importance. You should do lots of homework if you're investing in digital options. Binary options or fixed return option (FRO) or digital options anything you call them are really quite simple to deal with. Binary choices are a bit distinct from other types of options. In binary options you will either get yourself a fixed repay or nothing in any way. The payoff will be a fixed volume of any asset or security or its cash. When selecting digital options or I must say investing in binary options, you'll need to specify a payoff amount. Now here you should set a realistic payoff amount since your payoff is determined by the amount specified. In binary options, there is always an expiry date which can be very important. Upon expiration with the stock, Binary Cash Bot, you will receive the full payoff amount when the stock is trading at over the strike price. Alternately you are going to receive nothing in the event the stock is trading below strike price. This system can be used with any currency pair and any time frame
