Steve immediately excelled in lessons and a year later was to begin playing trumpet. As his talent grew he began spending summers playing jazz at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp. By the time he was 16, he was writing lyrics and music which were performed at school variety shows by other singers with Steve accompanying on piano. After moving to Los Angeles in 1986, Steve took a break from music for many years. It wasnt until years later that he became serious about his pursuit of writing. He attended UCLA, studying songwriting and orchestration, at which time he found composing to be equally as satisfying as his songwriting.
