Show all album songs: Bright New Day Songs Details: About Bill Bill Lauter is a distinctive voice in Long Island Music. First there is his voice - a warm, rich baritone with amazing range. Then there are the several guitars he plays, changing over the years and each richly complementing his voice. Equally entrancing is Bills repertoire - songs and guitar instrumentals from folk and popular traditions. Many of the songs from these different genres have a rich history, mainly because of their folk roots. The music Bill selects for each performance is tasteful and evocative. Along with his affinity for traditional folk music, Bill has a way of reinventing more recently popular songs such as Autumn Leaves With Bills highly refined guitar technique, you would think he would like to show it off at every turn, as with In The Bleak Midwinter, but his A cappella rendition of Wade In The Water leaves nothing in the way of the pure sound of his voice. Many well know artists, including Bessie Smith, have recorded Nobody Knows You When Your Down And Out. Bills version compares well to all of them. Bill has also extensively studied the history and construction of steel stringed acoustic guitars and has written several articles on the subject. Venues Bill has performed for over the past thirty years at such venues as: Libraries Folk Music Societies Historical Societies Festivals Schools Cafes Galleries Book Stores Parties Bill is also featured on the Folk Music Society of Huntingtons compilation CD Tonight at The Hard Luck Cafe
