Piano-based instrumental music for film - in the words of one collaborator: "emotionally, dramatically and artistically sophisticated, ethereal, mesmerizing, intensely dramatic, and unlike any other music I know."

12 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, CLASSICAL: Contemporary Details: Thoughtful arrangements of beautifully recorded, warm-sounding instruments. (Entertainment Weekly, on Gregs work with Hem).

September Songs: Music for Film, is the first solo offering by a man best known as the arranger for indie-folk band Hem. Gregs piano-based instrumental music (compiled from film and other projects) captures a range of deeply-felt emotion along with a quirkily playful sense of drama. Says one collaborator, He has ranged from quiet, lyric musings to the most elegantly harmonic vocal sounds. He is eclectic with power in many forms, flexible, intuitive, and capable of finding just the right music to complement even the most idiosyncratic vision. Greg Pliskas music and sound design surround the action with an evocative halo of sound. (culturevulture.net) September Songs: Music for Film features the work of Gregs ensemble, the Gowanus Radio Orchestra, a motley crew of New Yorks finest musicians. Tracks range from the moody Shards of Glass and the nostalgic Manhattan Nocturne to the lyrically mournful Rockville 1935, written as an elegy for his father. The energetic Champagne Rice, which accompanied Greg and his bride back down the aisle, and the quirky jazz tune, Ive Got a Question line up nicely next to a dance piece, Summer in the City, which bounces Zappa-esque guitar-and-marimba licks off of a propulsive piano part. Morning and September Song bring thoughtful and deeply-felt beauty to the mix. A must-have for fans of Hem, this CD stands on its own as a favorite of lovers of film music and aficionados of contemporary piano artists.
