Details: Christina Grimm performs heartfelt songs of love, loss, and transcendence that take the listener on inner journeys. Rooted in the folk-rock tradition, Grimm began playing and recording her own music while at UCLA Film School. After a stint as a screenwriter, she moved to Germany and performed original music there with several bands. At the end of the 90s, Christina returned to Central Coast of California. She turned her attention to the secrets of healing with sound and began weaving them into her music. The genes she inherited from her rock 'n' roll father, Ray Smith, have persuaded her to once again return to the stage to share the magic of her songs. She currently performs in the Santa Barbara area as a solo or with multi-instrumentalist Jack Lee. On Sept. 18, 2008, the Santa Barbara Independent wrote:

Christina Grimms name is deceptive because her music is anything but. With a sweet but powerful voice, this part-time vocal coach plays a collection of folk-infused pop, rock, and blues that are more than just mere songs theyre short stories set to music. Christina Grimms voice sweetly lays within a beautiful tone that ranges from the wonderful sound of Feist to the loungey soulfulness of Madeleine Peyroux, yet with her own fantastic depth and style.
