Recently digitally remixed with three bonus tracks added. It took ten years and a cast of thousands to produce this album. Robin would struggle early in her career to save up some money, then dash into a studio wherever she was playing and record a few tracks. Sessions were done in Boston (two different studios), Houston, Nashville, and Los Angeles. The fun part was finding and working with other young, very talented and struggling musicians. Listen for lead guitar player Brent Mason and steel guitar player Paul Frnaklin, both nominated for Musician of the Year many times in later years. They won it too! Also producer Mason Daring, who went on to Hollywood with many credits to his name like the music for Matewon, Eight Men Out, Brother From Another Planet and more. Then there's producer Tommy Jennings, yes, Waylon's brother who was an immense help. Many of these tracks went on to become independent hits nationally and internationally and launched Robin's career as a touring artist in the USA, Europe and Australia.
