Beatles influenced pop song. Released as a charity single for children with leukaemia. 5 MP3 Songs

POP: Beatles-pop, POP: British Pop Details: dream catcher dream catcher is a solo project former T42 singer John Rech started in 1997. After the huge success of his first single, "happy in my tree house", John teamed up with Eric Falchero to write a charity song ("deng Hand") for the Tlvie Campaign in 2003, thus resulting in dream catchers 2nd release. Enjoying this collaboration, the two rented a house in the South of France and wrote a couple of songs for an EP called "3" and released in 2005. Opening up for the British Band Ezio helped the band to establish a very good live reputation. 2006 will see the release of dream catcher's first album called "sunny days". The multilingual album is expected by the end of March and the first single (called "sunny days", too) is already available. Look out for dream catcher live They'll be touring Europe in April, May and November... Website: dreamcatcher.lu
