Details: Kick Kick is an American psychedelic, powerpop band from Shawnee, Kansas (aka Bossland). The current members include Jared JB Kick White (guitar, keyboards, vocals), C.J. Star Boss Rooney (guitar, vocals), Jeff Flashy Thundercat Nelson (tambourine, shakers, vocals) and Joe Handsome Horse Wilner (drums). Though their personal influences are varied, Kick Kicks sound is reminiscent of the 1960s swagger of The Rolling Stones, melodies of the Beach Boys, and edginess of The Clash. History Kick Kick followed an earlier musical songwriting project in 2006 call Manhoney. Percy Manhoney Hankins was the first character and collaboration of Kick Kicks songwriters, Chris Rooney and Jared White. Rooney and White pieced together the first Manhoney song Lay By the Fire, as well as a collection of other songs, with samples and original lyrics for an early jab at Myspace Music exposure. Kick Kick officially formed in 2007 when Rooney and Joe Wilner wrote songs while living together in Shawnee. White agreed to play and record with them mid 2007. The first official Kick Kick tracks Cadillac Lips and Rocky Road were recorded in Rooney and Wilners townhouse on a digital Tascam 8-Track PortaStudio featuring Rooney on vocals and rhythm guitar while White played the remainder of the music on a Fantom x-6 synthesizer. Cadillac Lips was later re-recorded to include Wilner on drums and Whites long-time friend, Jeff Nelson, for the release of Kick Kicks first collection of songs, Greatest Kicks. The Myspace Phenomenon Greatest Kicks, an album made from a selection of White and Rooneys songs, was the first, demo of Kick Kicks greatest hits. It was available in 2008 via Myspace Music and quickly gained international recognition. Along with a new package of Kick Kick aliases and vocabulary including Baller, Boss and Kick-Horses (their female fans), Kick Kick raised the bar for what success a Myspace band could achieve. Following the recording of Greatest Kicks, Kick Kick played their first show in early 2008 during an evening Walk-A-Thon for Cancer Research at the University of Kansas Memorial Stadium in Lawrence, Kansas. Two of the bands friends, Kris Losure (bass) and Chad Coolidge (guitar) played with them. Losure also played bass during the studio recording of Splinters in Your Fingertips for Powerplay. With many more songs written, some live playing exposure and requests from international radio stations, Kick Kick recorded their second album, Powerplay, the summer of 2008. They chose Justin Mantooth, a hip hop/rock engineer, to oversee the recording and mixing process. With one session recorded at Ashland Studios in Independence, MO, one in KC Recordings in Shawnee, KS, they settled in Westend Studios in Kansas City, MO. Powerplay, named after a ballers journey across the country of his own mind is a coming of age album featuring their first singles, Throw Your Heart Over the Bar, Sexy, Money, Power and American Party.
