Funky, hee-haw, rootsy, bluesy, Texas rock. 12 MP3 Songs ROCK: Roots Rock, COUNTRY: Country Rock Details: MacJack Daddy released their debut CD entitled Beyond Repair in November, 2002. After performing live on air for the top rated KLBJ-FM morning show in Austin, they blew the roof off the Hard Rock Cafe for their CD release party. That gig was their coming out party as well, as they attracted close to 500 attendees and earned a number of new fans. They have also caught the attention of local radio, as KLBJ has supported the disc by spinning South Austin Girl and Hard Luck Man. With the launch of macjackdaddy.com, an ever growing mailing list membership, and their high octane performances, they have begun building a solid fan base. A MacJack show is nothing short of a good time and no one leaves without feeling entertained. Word is spreading fast that this is an up-and-coming act not to be missed. The Sound A kind of down home funky hee-haw rootsy bluesy brand of rock 'n roll. That's the simple answer to describe MacJack Daddy's sound. Down to earth songs with memorable melodies draw comparisons to Tom Petty and Steve Earle. Whether rapping about Elvis, ragging on the underage drinkin' Jenna Bush, or paying homage to South Austin girls, MacJack Daddy has no problem keeping the audience's attention with their up-tempo performances. Collectively, the band brings a wide range of styles, tastes, and influences to the table. They all blend together in one creative melting pot, generating a sound as unique as Austin. Solid songwriting and collective input from the band helps shape the diverse song list.
