Details: Nicholas Sainato Composer, Pianist, Drummer I'm a perfectionist when it comes to my music, its my passion. The music I play with my band and the songs I compose reflect the many sides of me. Music has played a major role in my life and I try to imitate that in my music. Nicholas interest in music started when he was two years old and has since continued to be a major part of his life for the past twenty-three years. He grew up in a very musically influential home with a dance studio and piano that has yet to stop playing. As a child Nicholas would watch and listen as his mother taught dance lessons. Although he was in awe of his mothers ability to teach, it was the beat of the music that kept Nicholas attention. At four years old, Nicholas received his first set of drums and immediately gravitated towards them. It was instinct for Nicholas. Throughout high school, Nicholas continued to play the drums and support his mothers dance school. In 2001, he left New Jersey and moved down to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina where he was accepted into the music program at Coastal Carolina University. It was during his studies that he discovered a new love for the piano. He had always enjoyed the music his mother played, but never had a desire to learn the notes himself. Although the piano did not come as naturally as the drums, Nicholas practiced day and night and taught himself the notes he needed to pass. A year later, Nicholas passed all his piano classes with flying colors. After college, Nicholas began composing his first original piano piece. In 2003, he received his first keyboard and shortly after recorded his first instrumental piece adding in violins, trumpets, flutes and bass lines. It was with this first original recording that Nicholas realized he held the passion and dedication to compose more. Four years later, Nicholas has completed his first instrumental album and is selling it to eager listeners and supporters. Nicholas resides in his hometown of Morristown, NJ where he still spends most of his time on his music. He is currently the drummer in two bands- an original band and a cover band. When hes not performing or composing music, Nicholas is busy running his own organic food catering company, Sun Garden Organic and being a independent Certified Personal Trainer.
