The portal opens a gateway to your desires, and you step through the veil of smoke. Your senses come alive as nostrils fill with the familiar scents of whiskey stale perfume, the loud voices and mumbled conversations caress your ears - your favorite club. Darkness hangs over the scene like a shroud. The stage seems like a vast empty void of blackness, aching to be filled with the power that is rock-n-roll. The crowd presses in, sensing the imminent rush as they are suddenly hit with blinding light, and sound explodes into the room. Searing guitars, thumping bass, and pounding drums grab hold of the audience, they crush in toward the stage as a single entity. Then he arrives, the High Priest of Glamour, the Reverend of Hard Rock. The vocals rip through the sound completing the crescendo, a rock and roll revival is in full swing, PUSH has taken the stage....
