ESTEEM DREAMS focuses on strengthening each child's well-being with well-documented therapeutic techniques. The magic created is a wonderful model for any parent. Imagine going to bed at night having assurance that your child is hearing some of the most important psychological concepts of unconditional love, nightly, boasting emotional intelligence, self-esteem, and creating a foundation for learning. Suzanne Simpson, Ph.D. - Born and raised in Iowa and now is a practicing psychologist in California. Presently, Dr. Simpson is director of Children's Studies at West Coast Psychological Institute which has once throughout southern CA. She developed ESTEEM DREAMS after working for 20 years with children and adults who benefited tremendously by having certain developmental milestones anchored, enhancing security and self-esteem. It was from her experience working with adults that she came up with the idea of ESTEEM DREAMS. Dr. Simpson found that adults were often struggling with unfinished developmental milestones from childhood. Because of this, they were having difficulty forming good relationships and feeling fulfilled. She created ESTEEM DREAMS as a method of enhancing important developmental milestones in children when it is age appropriate, rather than later in life when many of her clients have suffered and, often, caused much pain to people who have been around them. Dr. Simpson believes giving your child a good emotional foundation during these early years is the gift of a lifetime. Eric Stein - Acclaimed musician that comes from a long line of classical musicians from the Ukraine. He is not only known for his musical talents, but also for his original compositions such as the magical piece he created for ESTEEM DREAMS. Eric has been involved in the music and media industry for many years. His experience ranges from international tours with major recording artists to composing and producing music for major Los Angeles advertising agencies. Some of his current projects include steinbrochersmusic.com, a website dedicated so providing music and video for online applications as well as more traditional mediums such as television and radio. dedicated to making artistic dreams a reality.
