Original Cast Recording: theatrical music drama of Tahirih, known as the Joan of Arc of the Eastern world. 9 MP3 Songs SPOKEN WORD: With Music, EASY LISTENING: Musicals/Broadway Details: "A Woman And Her Words" is the remarkable theatrical music drama based on the true story of Tahirih, the legendary 19th-century Eastern female mystic, poet, and legal scholar known as the Joan of Arc of the Eastern world. This production is extraordinary for its clarity, intellectual presence, lush music soundtrack and songs adapted from Tahirih's poems over 150 years old and only recently translated into English. Ongoing historical events of the 19th century western world are juxtaposed against the dramatic circumstances of Tahirih's life --whose commitment to social justice, human rights and equality was demonstrated when she tore away her face veil in the company of men in mid-1800's Persia. With this defiant act Tahirih called for the end of slavery and religious persecution, announcing the beginning of a new age for humanity. Starring Tadia as Tahirih, Parke McAlister as the European Journalist
