Review by Elia Rodia / Artists Bands Copyright (c) 2006 mp3hardplay Drummer/percussionist Stu Nevitt, better known for his membership with worldwide award winning band "Shadowfax", is on the scene with his first solo project. Stu has involved many great friends on the Marion Kind, making it a very intriguing setup of songs . The album is full of different colored pages. Brown Rice / Karmapa Chenno is a track with Sean Finnigan (The Gregg Allman Band,/ Etta James) on vocals, lots of percussion and an early 80's fusion layout; one of the strongest tunes on the album. Several musicians come and go in augmenting the core of the album. Unique and extremely talented Stu Nevitt is the director that blends many styles like reggae/ska tracks Blue in the Face Madagascar Caf with the help of "The Expanders" and "The Ancient Skalars". Blues standard 300 Pounds of Heavenly Joy is a classic heart drifter and an example of how Stu runs the complete music scene with the help of special guests Cash McCall (Willie Dixon, Chuck Berry, Rotary Connection and Shadowfax), Rob Paparozzi (Bruce Springsteen, Dolly Parton, Julian Lennon, Whitney Houston, Cyndi Lauper and Carole King) and last but not least Phil Maggini, bass guitar for Shadowfax! Instrumental Slim Limbs Akimbo, in collaboration with keyboardist and former member of Shadowfax, Armen Chakmakian, is a highlight of this unpredictable album! The Marion Kind is a mix of instrumental fusion, rock, jazz and Caribbean/world elements that are all expressive and powerfully electric, with an emphasis on musicianship. Stu Nevitt continues to give positive vibes to the music scene. Heavy use of percussion, strong melodies and atmospherics have always been in Stu's know how. For those that have admired the notes of past Shadowfax works, then this collection of tracks won't let you down.
