Imagine the synths of Crystal Method slammed up against the beats from the Chemical Brothers. 12 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Breakbeat/Breaks, ELECTRONIC: Dance Details: Right about the time that Society Burning was releasing Tactiq, I found myself confined to my apartment, far too sick to go anywhere or do anything. So, rather than sit on my laurels to that date, I decided to learn how to mix music via personal computer rather than overpriced studio. Along came the spider called Chase to rope me into doing some quick turnaround remix work for Hexedene Purr Machine, which led to remix work for Leaetherstrip, Battery, Idiot Stare, Urania, and others. That led to wondering why I was writing all this cool stuff for people I didn't know (minus Purr Machine Jonathan Sharp). So I got a good doctor, who got the "cure", and I got better. And I wrote. First track out - yeah - go figure "Out of Darkness". There was all this Kodo drum I had planned for the Urania mix that (ultimately) was getting in the way of my weird elektro vision, so I stripped the samples out. And out of nowhere, tracey convinced me to get them into this track. next up? "Flip" "Lie Called Life". Then "The Dead" (a lyric borrowed from tracey) which one of my mp3reviewers responded with "makes my head spin". So you're getting ready to download or buy the culmination of 10 years of me. "Where are the voices?" you ask. Right where they belong. A friend of mine put it best when he just started singing over the top of the music I was playing for him. You have a voice, and it is important to me! :) Take care and enjoy!
