Most of them are real flesh and blood people. Some of them felt startlingly real to me when I met them in my imagination. I fly a small airplane. At night, I can't help but think about what is going on down on the ground...in those homes, and parks, and cars that are just lights from where I sit. People are loving, earning each other's trust, taking each other's lives, laughing, writing last letters, being born, leaving, and some...are connecting with each other for the first time. Sometimes the first time is the only time. I can't tell you how much I have loved the connection with them. I hope they will also get to you. listen..., June 11, 2003 Reviewer: Alan J Balkin from Paris, France After finishing listening to Dick Summer's "Night Connections" I could not help wonder why this was so good. What is it that this guy has that allows him to convey our inner strengths, weaknessess, our triumphs and our foibles. For one, Dick Summer "gets it." He is a master of detail. Nothing goes unnoticed nor untold. He does not spare us any of the details of who we are, and what we may think. The funny thing is that not just anyone can masterfully "truthspeak" like Dick Summer does in "Night Connections". He says what most of us have thought, but may only have whispered to ourselves. As a long time fan of his, I must say that even if you are not, you should certainly do yourself the favor of getting "Night Connections" and hear for yourself, what you might have been thinking! Some of you will understand this, it certainly is "mouth verses ear"!!
