Details: Mary Sarah recently ended a 29-city, KidzBop World Tour where she was a featured soloist and ensemble performer. Now a self-assured thirteen-year-old, she began her singing career at the age of eight, performing at various regional events and church venues. Not long after her first taste of show business, she began vocal training with Tom McKinney Vocal Studios under the Seth Riggs Method. She has continued training locally with Ms. Jane Turner of Rosenberg Music and in Los Angeles with Lis Lewis of The Singers Workshop. She is currently signed with Osbrink Talent Agency of Los Angeles and her music is being considered for Radio Disney. Mary Sarah's credits include live theatre performances, talent competitions and independent film projects, culminating in her most recent tour with KidzBop. During the tour she adhered to a rigorous performance schedule, while also participating in numerous in-studio television appearances, interviews and audience interaction sessions all while maintaining the utmost professionalism among a broad spectrum of industry professionals. She is an energetic young lady with a passion for life, family and performing regardless of the audience. Her wit and humor are contagious and she loves to role-play. She enjoys travel, meeting new people and aspires to be a positive role model for the next generation. When asked at age ten what her goals were, Mary Sarah responded with a comment well beyond her years, "I want to be a voice for those who don't have one. She looks forward to achieving her goals of having her own television show, writing and performing her own music, designing her own clothing line and providing shelter and hope for the homeless population.
