Details: Jeannette Claudine Romeu is the fifth generation of her Classical and Jazz musical family. Her discipline comes from early childhood. When Jeannette was only three years old, she first studied Classical piano with her grandmother Zenaida Romeu and later continued her general music education by attending Russian Music conservatories all throughout her childhood. Jeannette gave her first Baroque, Johann Sebastian Bach piano concert when she was only four years old and that was the time when Jeannette started to love to write music compositions. At the tender age of four, Jeannette also recorded professionally Live, with full blown Tv orchestra, songs in Spanish, English and in the French language. Her rich melange of her French - Cuban -Spanish and Portuguese backgrounds has been an intense influence in her music and in her unique artistic evolution. At Age five she started to sing and act professionally in television shows in Havana, Cuba and Spain. Her father was the Jazz drummer for the "unforgettable" Nat King Cole. Jeannette Claudine also leaved in Madrid, where she continued her classical piano training and classical guitar. Jeannette always made good use of her many talents and made tremendous amounts of songs that always came from within with a natural flow. After living in Europe she came to New York City and later to the University of Miami majoring in Jazz Piano Performance. Her teachers were: J.B. Dyas, Don Militello, Rosalina Sackstein, Vincent Lawrence De Maggio, Don Coffman, Jeff Laibson, Jazz virtuoso Nat Adderley and his great Jazz Pianist Larry Willis. Here at the U of M she became a National Honor Student who received many music awards including the Golden Key to The National Honor Society and was always enrolled in the Dean's list for her outstanding scholastic achievements. Jeannette Claudine has recorded fifteen albums of her own in different genres and different languages. Today Jeannette Claudine Romeu is Galaxy Girl , a well known and prolific music composer and an outstanding record producer. A natural Singer and an amazing Classical and Jazz pianist - performer. As a guitarist and a keyboard player Jeannette had the honor to accompany Live, Rock Star Buckman Turner Overdrive in hits such as: "You ain't seen nothing yet" and "Taking care of business". Today her Live performances are unique and exiting, full of life and great energy. This March of 2004 The New York Times wrote: "Galaxy Girl is a self styled diva out of a science fiction novel who makes cheerful Trance tracks". With intense dexterity she completely dominates the keys under her fingers, She is a true master of her instrument. Jeannette had the great honor to learned production and engineering next to Legendary record producer Mr.Thomas Dowd the producer of the Rolling Stones and Led Zeppelin who collaborated in many of her songs and for many years guided Jeannette in the studio and was her mentor.
