Seven tracks of balkan-pop, sober psychedelia, and fine pop music. 8 MP3 Songs POP: Quirky, FOLK: Power-folk Details: Now We've Got Members: Curious Yellow Named after the most dangerous dream one can get from Jeff Noon's novel "Vurt", the first album from now we've got members is serious business. seven tracks of balkan-pop, sober psychedelia, and fine pop music. First appearance of both Magnus Moriarty(tm) on fiddle, and Dag Stiberg on saxophone. N o w W e ' v e G o t M e m b e r s In the beginning Now We've got Members didn't have any members at all. Today the band revolves around a core of eight people, and in some live situations theyre augmented by additional musicians, forming an ensemble of as many as fifteen members. The music can be described as a mixture of musical styles from near and distant hemispheres, all relative to which hemisphere the listener might be situated. The band has been known to incorporate folk music from the balkans, arabian funk and transcendental jams into their complex yet hummable pop tunes. Add to this elements of progressive rock (without the rock), disco (without the mirrorballs) and free jazz (without the jazz), and you have an idea of what Now We've got Members sounds like. The band is most comfortable on a stage in front of a dancing and ecstatic audience, and has also recorded three albums. A fourth full-length record is scheduled for release sometime during the course of 2006.
