Produced by Ken Whiteley. MBR07 Warm, informal and fun, BILL RUSSELL has been getting audiences involved and participating since 1970. Starting his folksinging career at the Yellow Door Coffeehouse in Montreal, BILL extensively toured Central and Western Canada in the 70s, playing at many festivals, coffeehouses and folk clubs. Although some of his own compositions are widely known -- recorded by Canadian childrens singers Raffi (Spider on the Floor, Biscuits in the Oven, Les Zombis et les Loups-Garou) and Kathy Reid-Naiman (I Like to Ride my Horse) and Frenchman Grand Dalton (Ouais ouais) -- BILL uses in his family and school performances mostly traditional material, much of which comes from his own childhood. BILLS children's albums are all in French (with translations included), and are based in the Cajun and Creole folklore of Louisiana, where he grew up.
