Acoustic roots. Deeply poetic songs of shadowy characters and life at the fork in the river. 13 MP3 Songs

FOLK: Urban Folk, FOLK: Alternative Folk Details: Originally from Illinois, Chris Fuller has brought his intricate, highly narrative songs to a wide array of folk music meccas, from the Unurban Coffeehouse in Santa Monica, to Common Grounds in Denver, to The Sidewalk Caf in New York City. Since moving to Manhattan in 2003, he has established himself as a fixture among a thriving community of Greenwich Village songwriters. His ever growing catalogue features historical epics, surreal experiments, and personal accounts. In 2003 the lyrics to his song The Dustbowl were chosen as the foreword for a collection of work inspired by the late Warren Zevon. In 2006 his song Subway Singin Blues was included in Volume 6 of the Ride The Train series, available from Newbraugh Brothers Records. Also in 2006, Chris was selected as an Artist In Residence by the Lower Manhattan Cultural Council. In 2007 he released his debut album, titled Sangamon.
