Details: To whom it may interest, Watching The River Run Revisited is a collection of my favorite songs that I still enjoy performing. Songs that I have either written, produced or engineered. Originally the reason for making this album was because inevitably, whenever a promoter and/or a radio station needed to create an ad for a Jim Messina Concert, they would choose the original recordings from The Buffalo Springfield, Poco and Loggins and Messina. The problem with this for me was the original recordings of "Peace of Mind" "Watching the River Run" "Kind Woman" and "Child's Claim To Fame" all contain Kenny or Richie as the featured vocalist. Whenever I heard them over the radio, I felt, they misrepresented what my audience would hear when they came to see me in concert. So, I booked studio time in Nashville using the four musicians/singers I was performing with at the time and we proceeded to record my entire set list. Which by the way, turned out to be fun stuff to do! Upon completion, I selected the songs from the master recordings to create the CD. My expectation to produce a comprehensive source for Radio stations and promoters to create their ads from was met. But what I didn't expect and much to my surprise was that my fans would respond with such appreciation and thereby making it much more special to me now than my original reason and purpose for creating it. That is why Watching The River Run is now being Revisited. For your enjoyment, Jim Messina
