Her new CD, Cant Judge A Book By Its Cover brings a wealth of traditional and original songs that get elementary school children hopping, dancing, clapping, singing and writing their own lyrics. Kids joyously honor differences in others with the melodious title song, while Butterfly gives them an opportunity to admire their own growth and changes. Children appreciate the world and their place in it as they join in with Hooray for the World. Writing their own rhyming lyrics is a natural result when kids sing Fooba Wooba John. Pepperoni Pizza With Cheese blends melodies, rhythms and movements to enable kids to sing a recipe and an opportunity to create their own procedural text with the accompaniment track. It is amazing how many different variations of Ice-Cream, Ice Cream kids invent. Phyllis raucous, in the hood, Trip Trap Rap, not only creates a new twist on an old tale, but engages kids in rapping along with Phyllis and acting out the lyrics.
