In under 3 years Violet Nine performed an astounding 300 shows from Boston to Los Angeles, received rave reviews in over 40 publications including The Boston Globe and Performer Magazine, performed with national recording acts such as EVE6, The Click Five and Rubyhorse, and developed a rabid underground fan-base thanks to their energetic live show. For Any Wonder the bands debut album, Violet Nine teamed up with acclaimed rock producer Greg Archilla (Matchbox 20, Collective Soul, Blue October) to hone a pop/alternative/indi-rock sound that is both modern yet instantly familiar. The first single, the intoxicating "Yell It Out," showcases the strength of Violet Nine's song-writing ability. Is it "any wonder" why these boys have been dubbed one of the top Boston bands? ALBUM DESCRIPTION: Violet Nine deliver a perfect union of pop, alternative and indi rock with their debut album "Any Wonder". "Any Wonder" has the rhythms and hooks of a party album, the power and aggression of your favorite rock album, and the emotional honesty you can only express through music. Lyrically, "Any Wonder" touches on a wide spectrum of themes. With its edgy guitar hooks and intoxicating rhythms, the first single "Yell It Out" explores the political climate during the 2004 presidential election. "Images Of Me" and "I've Seen You Before" expose the excitement and heartache of love while entrancing the listener in its angelic aggression. "All That Glitters" and "Hope" have the strength and emotion of arena rock anthems while showcase some of the best song-writing talent in popular music today. Every track on Any Wonder is a captivating story told through the eyes of each individual member.
