Details: Brenda Rider is a breast cancer survivor, and started the A Way With Words Foundation, Inc. and the ROCcK Children's Choir, as a way for cancer patients, siblings and those touched by cancer to inspire hope and continue the fight. The money raised by the foundation sponsors the projects the foundation takes on and cancer research. Brenda is an accomplished poet, song writer and musician. Her talents we brought back to life after her diagnoses and she realized she was here to do much more, for others. The music, poetry books, choir and comic books are an avenue to help and reach cancer patients of all ages. All the music, voices and lyrics are donated to the project by some very gifted and giving people. Rider states "We're only here a short time to make a big difference."
