Quotes from John's 'Against The Grain' cd reveal the attitude behind his style: "Emotions are universal. It is only in the way in which we express them that we differ. Music is a way of communicating, and for some, a way of conveying that which they cannot otherwise express." " I have listened to music of all kinds since childhood, though the study of music never interested me. I don't like to analyze it, and do not care to listen to those that do." "I taught myself what I wanted to know about the guitar and let life teach me about music. Over time, these and my other recordings are the result." You gotta love it!
