Ambient-Ethno Industrial Electronica with hints of Dead Can Dance, Nitzer Ebb and Nine Inch Nails 8 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Industrial, ELECTRONIC: Ambient Details: Description: Invisible Asps was conceived in Denver, Colorado as a vehicle for exploring Aron Beatty's resoundingly dark interest in bringing about a marriage of sorts of alternative/industrial rock and Eastern influenced music. Comparisons to other artists include: David Bowie, Nine Inch Nails, Marilyn Manson, Delerium, and Dead Can Dance. The product of this musical bastardization has been inclusion on several compilations, collaborations with other artists, and a dizzying array of remixes for other bands including Tristraum, Fiction 8, and Delerium. While doing post-production audio for video Aron honed his audio engineering skills at Zimage Sound Production the desire to strive to create the kind of music he wanted to hear was born: Dark and cinematic music that whispers its confessions to you while you are nodding your head to pounding beats or swaying to the electronic tribal rhythms crafted by Invisible Asps. Band History: Invisible Asps is a project that encompasses views and observations of this wild and wondrous world that we live in and mirrors them back in cohesive chunks. IA was started over 10 years ago and has gone through many different styles of music during that time from dark, jangly pop to industrial debauchery to soothing ambient electronica. IA has sprung forth and cohabitated with Aron's involvement with two other well received projects: as a bass player for Rousseau's Brush, a gothic pop band, a la The Cure; and as one half of Seven Time Lie, an ambient duo.
