A breath of fresh air among the musical bubble gum we are being fed. She is American, but her father is Belgian and her mother is African-American, specifically from the South. She also has Hungarian, Jewish, and Cherokee roots. All of these genes have a lot to say. Singing has always provided a release for her which makes for heartfelt, soulful performances. In high school, the head of the theater department recognized acting as another one of Aline's innate gifts. This encouragement led her to pursue acting at Santa Monica College. Subsequently, she auditioned and was accepted at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in Hollywood, California. Although, acting was moving, it became clear that music was her greatest passion. This invaluable training as a performer played a significant role in bringing increased life, depth, and meaning to the delivery of each one of her songs. Aline sat in with as many bands as she could which gave her the confidence to start her own bands. She sang at a club called Drai's in Los Angeles. Clubs such as Drais provided Aline the perfect arena to officially launch her career and perfect her art. In 1999, Aline attended a European music industry convention called Midem. There she met several contacts from all over Europe. She decided to move to Stockholm, Sweden. She lived and performed in Sweden for two years. BMG Sweden invested in a demo for Aline. Although, no contract was ever rendered. She moved to New York in the summer of 2001. She felt New York City would offer her a great creative platform. Currently, Aline inspires and successfully entertains audiences everywhere. Her audience often asks where does such a voice come from since Aline's frame is rather small in comparison. It makes you wonder.
