Details: Formed in late 2007, Lunchbox Hero are a 5-piece pop/rock outfit from Melbourne, Australia. Blending friendships with musical interests, Lunchbox Hero evolved with a strong awareness to fuse their own individual musical influences, forming a sound that is unique. Their distinctive music suggests a varied pool of inspiration, with traces of Tool, Bjork, Jeff Buckley, Lamb, and Dave Matthews Band to mention but a few. Finding it hard to pigeonhole, their music evokes a sense of alternative pop with a dash of rock. Consisting of Zander Thompson on bass, Steve Mitchelmore on drums, Nick Copland on guitars, Hayden Johns on keys and singer Leona Prue, they have supported Melbourne indie band The Young Lovers, Dont Mess with the Pony, David Cosma, Ryan Meeking and the Few and have performed extensively throughout each end of the city including places such as The Esplanade Hotel, The Peninsula Lounge, Ding Dong Lounge, Bar 303, Revolver Upstairs and The Empress Hotel. In August 2008, Lunchbox Hero spent a weekend together at The Base Studio in South Melbourne recording their debut four-track EP. The end result is a diverse selection of songs showcasing the individual talents of the band and the groups ability to collaborate. The opening track, Of You kicks off with ethereal vocals leading into an equally as powerful bass line. This combination of colourful guitar chords, grooving bass, solid drums and soaring vocals continue throughout the EP. What I Already Knew takes a step back from the rock feel of the opening track and dives straight into a laid back, catchy pop tune with Katie Noonan-esque vocal harmonies and bluesy guitar lines. Run displays the bands love of melodic rock with a galloping feel, reminiscent of Jeff Buckleys Grace. The closing track, To The Floor is a more melodic journey beginning with finger picked guitar and a ballad-like chord progression eventually leading to Leonas haunting, multi-layered vocals in the bridge. 2008 has been an exciting year for Lunchbox Hero and with a brand new EP to kick off the summer months, the band are looking forward to expanding their diverse fan base.
