About the contributing artist: DWAYNE OMARR has been in the shadows as a ghost writer, vocalist, and producer for many years, creating songs for many artists with major deals, with songs climbing to number one on the charts, but only in the shadows. Dwayne Omarr now steps out of the shadows and creates a Master Piece for the Yellow Brick Roads Organization. This Master Piece is the Title tracks to the up-coming Motion Picture Yellow Brick Roads The Francine Lucas Story. A film about what happens to children of incarcerated parents. Dwayne Omarr and Cornell Brown of Omarr Brown Enterprises fully support the efforts of Francine Lucas, founder of Yellow Brick Roads Organization, and daughter of Frank Lucas who is portrayed by Denzel Washington in the Block Buster Motion Picture, American Gangster. Dwayne Omarr grew up in Boston, was first interviewed by Tom Bergeron, and featured on the NBC program SUPERKIDS at age 14 for his ability to play multiple instruments. Dwayne Omarr studied at the New England Conservatory of Music, and Berklee College of Music both in Boston. Dwayne Omarr is a member of ASCAP with a catalog of over 300 songs. Dwayne Omarr is managed by businessman, and music impresario Cornell (the genie) Brown, who also manages Francine Lucas. Incredible Crew started in 1993. Original group members Vicky age 3, Supa Mario age 5, and Naci B 7, with "Bounce, Its Your Birthday" (Now a very popular saying by many TV and recording artists) Written by the Crews Ignacio Brown, Dakari, Dwayne Omarr and Cornell Brown. The Incredible Crew is the youngest group to ever get played on a BET program, which aired on BET with host Sherrie Carter back in '93 on the 8th birthday of Naci. The record was added, and received air play on W.I.L.D in their hometown of Boston, and many cities around the country. The then program director Stephen Hill, who gave the record his blessing, is now a high ranking executive at BET. Their label Dont Think Records was founded by Tom Barella , and their father Cornell Brown (a.k.a. Brown Genie). Several years later the Incredible Crew recorded the album Not A Dirty Word on Don't Think Records with Bobby Hill, Larry (Tha Docta) Reeves, and DD Redd. Incredible Crew appeared on a TV show for Noggin's "The N" (A Walk in Your Shoes) with a then struggling country artist Chris Young, now Country's American Idol (Nashville Star) and RCA recording artist. With their love for God and their focus to support the kids along with the Yellow Brick Roads Organization the Incredible Crew looks forward to doing big things in 2008. The Crew members are Madlyn, Victoria, Supa Mario and Naci aka Flaco. Also look out for their God brother and sister Young Omarr and Portia in their efforts to help support the Yellow Brick Roads Organization.
