Thoughtful, well crafted folksy, alt-country-ish, rock influenced singer-songwriter. 13 MP3 Songs FOLK: Urban Folk, COUNTRY: Alt-Country Details: Justin McRoberts is a highly respected singer/songwriter who, over the past 9 years, has carved out a niche for himself in the independent music scene. He is one of those rare artists who can blend artistry, honesty and humor. He has recorded 6 full-length albums, 3 EPs and maintains a full tour schedule year round. As a songwriter and communicator, Justins support of the International Justice Mission, Compassion International and Blood Water Mission has become a central part of his heart and his mission. In his own words, My heart has been broken for the poor and oppressed. It brings me life to plead the case of the poor, oppressed and marginalized. McRoberts most recent release, Deconstruction (2008), is laden with the same disarming honesty the 34 year old has always been known for. Working from the criticisms of skeptic writers such as Christopher Hitchens, Richard Dawkins and Bertrand Russell, McRoberts new collection of songs cuts to the heart of what it means to be human. The themes of justice and compassion touched on by the album are part of what McRoberts sees as a larger definition of humanity than science or even religion can offer.
