Actor, Singer/Songwriter, harmonica player Don Baker celebrates his 50th birthday in Lillies Bordello, Dublin on Monday September 11th. Amongst those expected to party on the night are Daniel Day-Lewis, Robbie Coltrane, Jim Sheridan, and Larry Mullin. The night will also see the launching of his 7th album Miss You and an e-Commerce web site donbaker.ie. Don Baker is one of Ireland's most gifted musicians whose fans include; U2's Bono who publicly declared Don, "the greatest harmonica player in the world", and Charlie McCoy who described Don as "the best Rock Blues Harmonica player" he has ever heard. Mark Feltham of Oasis rates Don the best acoustic harmonica player alive. Don is the author of several instruction books on the harmonica, which are on sale in several languages and are distributed throughout the world, as well as five teaching videos. He also adjudicates bi-annually at the World Harmonica Championships. In the 1993 film, In the Name of the Father starring Daniel Day Lewis and directed by Jim Sheridan, Don received critical acclaim for his role as Joe McAndrew, head of the IRA in the UK prison where Gerry Conlon was detained. Don has just completed filming a major role in a Hollywood comic caper movie titled On The Nose also starring Dan Ackroyd and Robbie Coltrane due for release 2001. The book "The Winner in Me - Don Baker's Story" by Jackie Hayden (director of Hot Press) has enjoyed success in the Irish Bestsellers list. Distributed by Chart Records, the new album MISS YOU features Don backed by his band who in their own right are counted amongst Irelands most respected musicians. Since recording his first highly acclaimed album "Almost Illegal" in 1989, Don has matured as a person and so have his songs and music. The songs, like the poignant Miss You title track of the album and the hard-hitting Mama, are written from an emotional rather than intellectual standpoint. These songs are honest and true insights to which most listeners will readily identify and relate. Also featured on the album are two instrumental pieces, Waiting for Daylight a swampy delta blues feel and the rockin Funky Duck popular at concerts. Charlie McCoy wrote Funky Duck for Don and in return Don composed Jordana which Charlie recorded. The Funky Duck is also the only track on the album not composed and written by Don. Recorded at Sonic Studios in Dublin, the album was arranged and produced by Don. His many years recording experience gave him the confidence to take chances and experiment with his music. This is evident in the evocative string arrangements on Miss You and the funky groove on Chains. The music is not saturated with instruments or technology and the instruments were played live in the Studio giving the album a strong true feel. This album proves that Don Baker is not just a world-renowned harmonica player but is also an accomplished guitar player and songwriter of substance.
