The Hazzards' cute, quirky sound has earned them fans around the world. Accompanied by bass, drums and harp, So Pretty's playlist ranges from the sweet - the girls' ode to flavored malt beverages, "Girl Beer" to the extreme - the extra-tough "The Business"-nasty!. With catchy choruses, unique instrumentation, awesome lyrics, and an entire closet full of matching outfits, The Hazzards prove that they truly are So Pretty. About The Hazzards Sydney Maresca Anne Harris have been playing the ukulele together in NYC since meeting at a party in 2000. Originally known as "The Ukes of Hazzard", they shortened their name to stay on the right side of the law. A dance remix of their song "Gay Boyfriend" was released in the UK and debuted at #67 on the UK singles charts beating Seal who debuted that same week at #68! The Hazzards have been charming audiences all over New York, the internet, and the UK! The video for "Gay Boyfriend" was downloaded over a million times within 3 months of its initial posting! You may have seen them live in New York City at Irving Plaza, Galapagos, Luna Lounge, The Knitting Factory, The Cutting Room, Ars Nova, North Sixth and more. Their UK promotional tour included numerous talk show appearances, articles in The Sun, and a big dance number at London's Club G-A-Y. A Comedy Central favorite, The Hazzards captivated US television audiences as part of the "Out on the Edge" special and "World Stands Up" series. Originally a ukulele/Casio SK-1/glockenspiel/tambourine duo, The Hazzards are now playing with a full band: Will Carlough (The US Patent Office, Conquistador, Premium Blend) on drums, Andrew Dickerson (Cirque This!) on bass, and Paul Thureen (A Thought About Raya, Children with Hands) on harp! Press Highlights "Their peppy, girly songs, including the hilarious, 'Gay Boyfriend,' are sweet and seemingly innocent, but we can just tell those two precious, uke-strumming gals in front are up to something." - Time Out NY "Absolutely adorable!" - The Village Voice "Saucy...an internet sensation" - The Sun (UK) "Flirty duo want sex with a Scotsman to set them straight" - The Sun (Scotland) hazzards.com
