Details: Notes: This CD is the second of the Piano In The Raw recordings, designed to recreate the intimate experience of a live piano performance for your listening pleasure. The music featured on this CD was recorded on June 16, 2008 at the 1794 Meetinghouse in New Salem, MA. For nearly 1,000 years classical music has been a sacred connector, bringing people closer to the Divine Essence of the Universe. Though this musical genre has matured and evolved since its inception, those same words can be used to describe classical music in modern times. In fact, classical music in the 21st Century is not just a precious commodity; it is also a necessary medicine to help us relieve the stress tension of our daily lives. Bio: Adams experiences as a musician transcend the boundaries of a typical classical pianist. Over the past 20 years he's studied classical piano, voice and composition while exploring the facets forms of different styles of modern music. In 2003 his focus began to shift from performing to composing; hes since released six full-length CDs of his own compositions, with several more recordings to be released in 2008. In addition to his extensive performance schedule as a classical pianist, Adam works as a freelance composer, arranger, multi-instrumentalist, studio musician, producer consultant throughout New England.
