(GTlaw-Steven S Sidman and management (Carver Management) teams are in place. Check these guys out! Concert report from the "Red Beard"; Myrtle Beach Rocks: Prior to Saturday, the only knowledge I had of Not Yet Rated was that the guys who make up the band are young and extraordinarily talented:

Now that I've seen them live, I know that statement is accurate on both counts. Despite their age, NYR have a stage presence that would rival some better known national acts, not to mention the artistic ability to back it up. This combination of youth and skill is going to take NYR far in the world of music, and I would not be surprised to hear of them being a sought after commodity once someone in the industry gets wind of them Concert report from Brian Rickman- Music director from WKZQ in Myrtle Beach:

(Thornley/NYR) report All I can say is [censored] EXCELLENT!!!! Man! What a GREAT show! I had a great time tonight!! Foremost, really enjoyed hanging out with Dragon from Bleen, Brian from the HOB and all of the listeners I had the pleasure of meeting tonight! Thanks for the many beers and the intelligent conversation! The crowd tonight was not quite as large as we had expected for such a CHEAP show (5 bucks). But, the 200 or so that were there tonight were LOUD and VERY ENTHUSIASTIC (as Ian Thornley pointed out during his set) and, so, all was good. Prior to tonight, I had never heard or seen NOT YET RATED. This was my initiation. Dragon asked me before the guys took the stage if I had seen them before. I told him "no" and he laughed, then knowingly said, "Man, they're gonna blow you away." The curtain broke and NYR took the stage. HOLY CRAP! These guys ROCK! Well written, tight songs with plenty of chops!! Their drummer is killer, their vocalist has an excellent stage presence, their bass player is in the pocket - and their guitar player storms the stage like the angry young man that he is.....these guys are STILL IN HIGH SCHOOL!!!! Whaaa....?!?!?! It must have been apparent that I was pretty impressed because about three songs into NYR's set, Dragon leaned over to me and said "See? Told ya so! ha!" (or something to that effect - I couldn't totally hear him as NYR was perfectly LOUD!) Great set !!!!!
