Martini Pop- music for when you've outgrown bubblegum 5 MP3 Songs POP: Piano, POP: Folkly Pop
Details: PRESS CLIPPINGS: Washington Post "what's opening doors for her is the rich sound of her voice, clearly audible as she bounds from folk-rock to pop" SINGER MAGAZINE "Her voice is intoxicatingly seductive. Her lyrics are creative and captivating." Borders Books Music "clear, beautiful voice, sophisticated lyrics and catchy pop rhythms and melodies." Discovering Artists "Blending a gentle voice with an aggressive mix of whimsical electronica riffs and hard core guitar interludes, Leah Morgan is quickly emerging into the music industry, and leaving a trail of spunky footprints as she makes her way past the rest of the gals with guitars in hand." "Stepping out into the music industry, Morgan is an artist to watch. Her feminine voice and intoxicating melodies are sure to grab the attention of many, and respect of even more." "The girl is a hard core female rocker who has ventured far and wide to develop her own musical genre, yet seems to do so with splendor." "Overall, a varied sound emerges gracefully throughout the album, yet with rock-n-roll force that demands attention and evokes dynamic emotions" Left Off The Dial "a refreshing change of pace from the style-over-substance pop-punk infesting the airwaves" "Leah Morgan has crafted an instantly memorable release..." "Zero Dollars Spent is a fantastic album that marks the coming of a singer/songwriter with extraordinary potential." On Tap Magazine Local singer/songwriter Leah Morgan's debut CD, "Zero Dollars Spent," reveals a rich voice and music well worth the purchase price...her voice alone makes her worth seeking out." Washington CityPaper "Despite favorable comparisons, Leah is her own artist, and with the able backing of J. "Tom" Hnatow (lead guitar), Paul Frields (bass), and Rich Nagel (drums), the singer/guitarist/keyboardist seems poised to have us all singing her praises soon...a superlative sonic mix...she'll have you at the first note. " KYNDMUSIC By Dave Terpeny, KyndMusic Editor "My god that voice is amazing; an angel would be an understatement."

"The intimacy is overwhelming and that piano sound, amazing. " BIOGRAPHY: Leah Morgan and her band have been performing their Martini Pop music across the country since December of 2002, appearing at The Kennedy Center Millennium Stage, the Barns of Wolf Trap, The Bitter End, and many others.
