Folk with a flavor of jazz and blues, drawing from Fiona Apple, Norah Jones and Jewel 14 MP3 Songs
POP: Folky Pop, JAZZ: Jazz Vocals Details: People rarely expect the treasures that lie beneath the surface of this young performer. However, Sonya Lorelle's songs reveal there is so much more to this talented individual. She has written a collection of music that explores the crevices of the soul and the human experience. Her effective piano stylings support her powerful voice as she delivers the message that reveals a depth of passion. Her songs are "torchy" and clever, and familiar enough that you will recognize yourself. Stylistically Sonya has been described as a blend of Nora Jones and Fiona Apple. Sonya characterizes her music as folk with jazz and blues influences. She released her first CD, "Independent Woman," January 2003 at a concert at the New Coast Gallery in Reeds Spring. Currently she is performing solo throughout the Midwest. She has caught the attention of audiences and club owners while playing in New Orleans and Nashville. Most recently Sonya returned from Europe where she performed in London. She has received rave reviews since her emergence into the music scene. A Great American Song Contest Judge described her as an "obvious talent." She has received many awards throughout the years including 2nd place in Enormous Records Songwriting Contest in 1999 and an Honor Award in the 2002 Great American Songwriting Contest.
