An adventurous and often offbeat blending of jazz with elements of world music styles from all over the world, including Romanian, Indonesian, Middle Eastern, African, Brazilian, Jamaican, Indian, Greek, Asian, Afro-Cuban and good ol' American jazz 14 MP3 Songs JAZZ: World Fusion, JAZZ: Acid Jazz Details: "From the opening burst of explosive sound of its title track, Ganesh is as startlingly brash and original as its cover art suggests. Its musical boundaries span the globe with the sounds and styles and rhythmic influences, reaching from Africa to Arabia, to Ireland and India, and back here to the Chicago jazz scene." --Jazz Institute of Chicago-Dennis Sieja This Chicago-based "globaljazz" quintet was conceived in 1992 by pianist/composer Dave Flippo and has survived numerous incarnations and changes in direction. The composition tend to blend elements of one or two world music styles with some elements of jazz, so that you always get some kind of hybrid. Blend this with Flippo's off-center sense of humor and outlook on life and you get FLIPPOMUSIC. The musical approach also widely varies--from simple sketches to highly scored works such as Battle of Shiva and Ganesh or Gyromaniations. Blame this on Flippo eleven years of school which earned him a Doctorate in Composition and Piano from the University of Michigan and a Masters of Music from the Eastman School. Of course, after all that study, he still had to come to Chicago to study jazz theory and practice with Alan Swain and others. Dan Hesler contributes on the saxophones and flute, Donn De Santo on electric and acoustic bass, Heath Chappell on drums and percussion and Bob Garrett and Aris Biskis both take turns on the worldly percussion. Other past members and guest artists have included Hamid Drake, Michael Zerang, Ken Vandermark, Steve Hashimoto, Ted Sirota, Pat Mallenger, Jeff Newell, Yatindra Viad and Lyon Leifer.
