Details: Gene Arnold's rich, ultra-smooth baritone voice and perfect pitch have attained a patina over the thirty years he has performed in intimate night spots and grand ballrooms. After studying voice at The Chicago Fine Arts Institute, Gene began singing in public on Chicago's world famous "Rush Street"...home to classy supper clubs and live entertainment lounges. At long last, after years of performing in a variety of venues across the country, Gene Arnold presents an album of timeless romantic American standards and popular ballads, wonderfully arranged and orchestrated in the tradition of the greatest artists from years gone by. "Through The Eyes Of Love" is a nostalgic collection of some of the most romantic love songs from the past fifty years, and Gene's refreshing style adds new luster to well-crafted lines like "I can only give you love that lasts forever..." and "You won't regret it, women don't forget it, try a little tenderness...", and from the title song, "Please, don't this feeling end, it's everything I am...". As Michael Allison, writer of reviews and articles for "Musicdish.com" recently said..."Gene Arnold has taken a collection of popular love songs from various decades, and gave them a twist of his contemporary style...songs that range from romantic standards to more recent pop songs...each song has Gene's tweak of adult contemporary and easy listening flavor. There's a nice feeling that Gene portrays with his music of choice. His baritone vocals deliver a nice, warm, heartfelt mood to the music and the moment. The romantic feeling is sure to be enjoyed by all who listen." When you listen to Gene Arnold's treatment of these wonderful love songs..."the feeling will never end"!
