Related styles: KIDS/FAMILY: Educational, SPOKEN WORD: Audiobook Details: Originally from North Carolina, and after years working in advertising in New York, narrator Talmadge Ragan now lives in Los Angeles and Three Rivers, CA, where she works as an actor in films, television and theatre. She is a member of SAG, AFTRA and Actor's Equity. For the last several years, she has been in charge of the Screen Actors Guild Conservatory Office at the American Film Institute, and integral in casting for AFI. She is co-owner with her husband, director and writer, Worth Keeter (who also produced this audiobook) of Blue Kiss, LLC, an independent production company for films, commercials and audiobooks. She is President of Women in Theatre in Los Angeles and on the Advisory Board for two non-profits: Kings and Clowns- the Educational Shakespeare Alliance, and Art Soul. She became intrigued with THE SIGN OF THE SALAMANDER after a producer friend, interested in making a movie of the 1967 book by Eugenia Miller, recommended it might be a good audiobook for young people. Collaboration with Keeter, artists at neelu-madeand John Legrande of Johnnecatt Studios in Los Angeles made this the inaugural foray for Blue Kiss Audio.
