Continuity Cash Secrets PERSONAL USE RIGHTS ONLY! Are you ready to take the idea of an online business and inject the security of a steady and reliable paycheck in to it? If so, you're in luck and you're about to learn why Internet marketers everywhere are changing their business models as we speak. Building an online business that you can rely on is becoming harder and harder these days so it's important to keep up with moving trends. Regardless if you're new to online business or if you're a seasoned vet looking to make more money, this secret can help you jump start your income. There's no doubt that businesses all over the world have been floundering. The recession has people spending less money, hoarding more money and generally being much more discerning in any purchases they make. Of course this is resulting in businesses bringing in less new customers, losing more old customers, and making less money per transaction. This has online businesses falling straight on their heads because there is so much competition in the online marketplace! There are a few select businesses that are seeing dramatic increases in their bottom line profits each month, would you like to know their secret? The fact is, if you don't make enough money each month, you don't stay in business. It doesn't get any clearer or more real than that, I'm sure you'll agree. The recession is doing some serious damage. Businesses are scrambling trying to find ways to supplement their income and prevent their businesses from going into the red, going into debt and ultimately going under. If you hope to be in business for more than a few months, it's important that you take action to prevent recessive losses. Enter: Continuity Revenue! Just in case you aren't familiar with continuity programs or continuity revenue, I'm going to explain what they are...

Continuity programs are ordering systems in which a customer makes an initial purchase and then receives a service or product each month thereafter for a repeating charge. So to make it simple, a person pays monthly for a product or service they receive monthly. This is an excellent way for a customer to get something they would normally buy but get it in a way that is more convenient. Automatic billing and automatic delivery of a product or service saves the customer time, money, and hassle of shopping. Many people love continuity programs as you're aware and sign up for them for things such as water delivery, cell phone service, and cable tv service. Other things that people pay for on a monthly basis are pest control services or lawn maintenance. Continuity programs have become increasingly popular with internet customers as an extremely important convenience item. Create A More Reliable Stream Of Income In Your Business Regardless Of Market Conditions... Now you know what continuity programs are and also know why customers love the convenience and time savings that they provide. So what does this mean to you? Continuity billing means that you can create reliable, consistent income in your business by offering a product or service on a monthly basis. In a time with market conditions that we are currently experiencing, it's vital that you make sure your business is capitalizing on as many streams of income as possible. Continuity programs provide 3 very important benefits to any business that decides to set one up in their promotional mix...

- 1) Saves you money from having to advertise or re-market to existing customers to make additional purchases with your business.
- 2) Creates reliable monthly income that comes into your business each and every month that your customers stay part of the monthly program.
- 3) Provides the security of a 9-5 paycheck, even in tough times so that you have more security in your finances.
