Details: Antonio Andrade was born in Puebla de Cazalla near Seville, a village with a strong tradition of Flamenco singing. Growing up in a family of Flamenco aficionados provided him with a cultural upbringing in this ancient art form. His uncle is Jos Menese, a living legend among Flamenco singers. It almost goes without saying that he began playing guitar at a very early age. His tutors were none other than Romero de Badajoz, Miguel Perez Sr. and Jr. as well as Antonio Amador from the Gitano Clan of the Amadores, which spawned many famous Flamenco guitarists. During his long career he has collaborated with Flamenco greats such as Javier Barn, Israel Galvn, Antonio "El Pipa", Javier Cruz, Sara Baras, Carmen Ledesma, Concha Vargas, Manolo Marn and many others including Andr Heller for his show "Magnetten-Musik der Zigeuner". As Artistic Director and Producer of the "Compaia Flamenca Alhama Maria Serrano" he has proved his talent during many tours all over the world. Concerts tours with large-scale productions "Viva Sevilla", "Flamenco es mi vida" and "Mi Carmen Flamenca" have taken him from Europe (Deutsche Oper Berlin, Alte Oper Frankfurt, Prinzregententheater Mnchen, Filharmonie Warsaw, Konzerthaus Vienna, Teatro Ariston San Remo) to the USA (Joyce Theater New York, Fox Theater Atlanta, Lensic Theater Santa Fe) to Japan (International Forum Tokyo, Granship Daichi Shizuoka).
