Singer-songwriter personal-pop and light rock with folk-rock, blues and jazz influences 10 MP3 Songs
POP: 70's Pop, ROCK: 70's Rock Details: Daniel A. Young is a singer-songwriter with a long history of involvement in the Indiana music scene, as a singer, songwriter, band leader, solo performer and studio session singer. His songwriting style is an eclectic blend of jazz-influenced pop and light rock. He is a published songwriter and a member of A.S.C.A.P. "Soul to the Wheel" is Daniel's 2nd CD, completed in June of 2005. The ten songs are each unique in sound, tempo, rhythms, instrumentation, and mood; the collection derives its continuity from the writer's point of view and lyrical style, as well as his consistent vocal quality. The collection describes a series of emotions and reflections on love and loss. The songs are deeply personal, and the emotions, from romantic optimism to crash-and-burn, are real. The full-production recordings are a mix of studio tracks using other musicians and singers, and home-studio tracks using Daniel's original MIDI-sequenced arrangements. (Daniel also performs jazz pop standards, in the general style of Tony Bennet and Michael Buble, but the CD in that genre is unfinished, and nothing of that style appears on the current CD).
