Influenced by The Beatles, The Byrds, and Bob Dylan, D.L.Byron also wrote the Grammy award winning song "Shadows of the Night" recorded by Pat Benatar. 8 MP3 Songs ROCK: Modern Rock, ROCK: 60's Rock Details: D.L.Byron is a Grammy award winning singer/songwriter. Once signed to Arista Records, and produced by Jimmy Iovine, he began his own independent record label, Zen Archer Records. His first release on Zen Archer, "Exploding Plastic Inevitable" which has already sold thousands of copies worldwide. His second release, due out shortly, is entitled "Plain Clothes". It is an all acoustic recording, and falls more into the "Power-Folk" genre. D.L.Byron is also responsible for writing the Grammy Award winning song "Shadows of the Night" as recorded by Pat Benatar, selling roughly 15 million units to date. His music is poetic and timeless, allowing the listener to weave in and out creating their own colours. Although, somewhat reminiscent of the music of the late 60's, D.L.'s music stands out on its own! Turn it up!
