Her roots start in a small lobster fishing town in Winter Harbor, Maine. Megan attended college at the University of Southern Maine where she Majored in Music Performance with a concentration in Jazz Voice studies. Although College was imperative for the growth in Megan Light, she felt that her purpose in life was for something much bigger. In fall 2004', she packed up her voice and moved to Nashville, TN. It wasn't long before Megan realized what a natural talent she had in songwriting. She wasn't the only one taking notice. After only two years of writing, she turned on the interest of producers Robert Reynolds (Grammy Award winner from the Mavericks) and Nashville singer-songwriter Jim Reilly (New Dylans). In Spring 2006' they teamed together and recorded Megan's first album "Weightless". This upbeat pop/rock album is radio friendly with a unique sound. Her songs reflect a realism of her life in the music industry, her ups and downs, and all the discoveries she has found along the way. Megan has been compared to the likes of Liz Phair, Nelly Fertado, Coldplay, and Ani Difranco. Not only has Megan sold out shows from her hometown, but she is also creating her place in Nashville drawing a local following playing venues including world famous songwriting home, "The Bluebird". Her acoustic shows are incredibly special as she touches the soals of people from all over the world. You can say this 24 year olds talent is way beyond her age. It is without a doubt that Megan Light has something special that only comes around once and a great while.
