After some downtime following their years together in The Crime, Jeff and Rick decided it was time to put together a new band. The guys called on their good friend Greg Roberson (Snake Eyes, Jack-O The Tearjerkers, Reigning Sound) to co-write some new songs with them. After writing and demoing 52 songs with Roberson the band went into Rocket Science Studio with engineer Kyle Johnson to record their debut record simply titled "The Everyday Parade". The band was joined in the studio by J.B. Horrell (Noise Choir) on bass and keyboard players Adam Woodard (Snake Eyes, Jack-O The Tearjerkers, Harlan Bobo) and Jim Dickinson (Snake Eyes, Bob Dylan, Arlo Guthrie, The Rolling Stones) to round out the sound.
