The elation and torment of love is wedded to the heavens and earth through a delicate pop style and prose. 10 MP3 Songs EASY LISTENING: Love Songs, SPOKEN WORD: Poetry Details: Ten minutes of energy-gobbling obsession! Yes, this album is short, but packed. Carolyn heard music for the first time as she was cradled in the arms of family members who took turns trying to lull her to sleep. No matter how long they paced the hallway, the little insomniac just cried to their lullabies. Perhaps these were her first voice lessons. In a few years, coming home from Kindergarten meant picking out the melodies (on toy instruments) she had learned at school. Soon she was composing her own songs, and at age 10, with input from her sister Anna Marie, created a musical, THE MERMAID WHO WANTED AN ADVENTURE. After a performance (in front of her entire junior high school) of her own 20-minute toy piano fantasia, Connecticut's STAMFORD ADVOCATE sent a reporter and photographer to her home. Carolyn was featured on the front page of a major newspaper. A local piano teacher saw the article and gave Carolyn free lessons. In one week she learned how to read music and gradually wrote down all the compositions playing around in her head. Graduating from Western CT State College with a degree in music education, Carolyn was launched into the adult world of will-I-be-able-to-pay-the-rent and when-will-I-ever-find-my-man? During a particularly soul-searing infatuation, music was her only solace. So she felt compelled to pour out I CAN'T STOP. Too ashamed of her inflamed feelings, she hid the song and related prose for two decades. Then along came David, a violin student of hers, and Carolyn realized she had found her man and married him. With his gentle encouragement she was able to pull her artwork out of the closet and resume her dreams. Currently living in the Seattle area, Carolyn is planning to record some of her children's songs and piano fantasias.
