

Intergenerational Support And Old Age In Africa - Isabella Aboderin

DOWNLOAD HERE

In most of sub-Saharan Africa, in contrast to other world regions, economic security policies for older people have not yet been formulated, despite declines in material family support along with rising poverty to which a growing elderly population is exposed. In part, this betrays the crucial lack of understanding about how and why these shifts in support have occurred in African societies. To address these gaps in understanding, Aboderin provides an empirical and theoretical analysis of the micro and macro level processes that have underpinned recent declines in old age family support in African societies and the likely parameters of future familial support. She also addresses more fundamental theoretical questions about how we should think about the relationships between intergenerational support, norms and values, and societal change.
