Keyboard driven songs with a political bent fused to a hip-rock bass and drums featuring some of NYC's finest 19 MP3 Songs ROCK: Progressive Rock, JAZZ: Acid Jazz Details: ..."we're in the cocktail lounge of the great void, you can think and groove at the same time, superb musicianship" - Boston Phoenix "an imposing presence" - New York Times Check out this N.Y. songwriter-pianist-singer as he brings a formidable line-up to his debut release; Kurt Rosenwinkel on bass with Bruce Arkin on drums, Princess Superstar and Deanna Kirk each sing a tune, as do Amy Kahn and Mighty Bisan. Ray Ippolito, Todd Horton, and Dave Massuci bring instrumental reverie. Tommy D, engineer of Makavelli, steers the way on "Ride". This is a world of Galaxy Bombers, racist sports radio shows, Triple Goddesses, the House of Crash, MC Not, an escalating amount of grab bag skeleton men, space echo piano, 2000 Years Ago, the Dance of the Hours. "This album doesn't just color outside of the lines but leaves a shattered pile of them in its wake" -CDBaby review of Dance of the Hours Pat's got some new projects you might find interesting; an instrumental CD New York Electric Piano also available on CDBaby features Aaron Comess of the Spin Doctors on drums and has been accused of possessing addictive qualities. Counting countries sleeping tonight No lip biting uptight Our country is our universe Our Galaxy Bombers are well rehearsed They circle the earth Deep on the ocean floor humans send cameras to do their looking for them. Eating sharks are plants that cling and envelope, ripen and vine. Animal behavior from plants, perfectly normal for them deep on the ocean floor, Looks like the gentle ballet meant for nature here on the surface Where color is not worshipped and everyone seeks kindness while Galaxy Bombers blind us. The fishys that say that long ago the stars turned the oceans into snow And now they say after all these years the stars will turn the ocean into tears -from Galaxy Bombers To be informed of upcoming shows join our Email list
