He is a former All-Ireland Champion Accordion player and has just recorded his debut solo album "Keep her lit !!". This features many well-known and respected musicians, including Sean de Burca, Sean Regan, Steve Simmonds, Kieran Quinn, Tom Giblin, Bruno Staehelin Sinead Deely. Gary was introduced to traditional music at a very early age - both of his parents have always had a great love of traditional music and in particular accordion music. Growing up, entertainment in the Quinn household was usually live - from banjo to guitar to beautiful voices... and of course the accordion. The whole family are gifted with great musical ability, although Gary has pursued his talent more so than the others. By 1989 Gary had won the all Ireland National PTAA accordion championship - an achievement which brought great pride to his family, and also to his local area. He still lives in Brierfield with his wife Jane and his 2 children who are already, at ages 4 and 6, learning their own instruments and showing signs of the family talent. Gary (who has now reached the tender age of 38) has travelled all over the world with his accordion. Along with his brother Kieran he travelled throughout New Zealand in 1996, and introduced traditional Irish music to many new fans!! As part of Ceoiltoir Maghlocha in 1995 Gary travelled to North America, Hawaii, Australia etc... This was an 11 week tour, organised by Mr Thomas Mannion, where the musicians played a host of venues and delighted many an audience with their enthusiastic and talented playing. One of Gary's greatest memories of this tour was playing the Sydney Opera House, to an audience of over 6,500 people. His most recent travelling experience was to Canada with Sean Keane in August 2007, where they played to audiences in five different cities. Throughout his career, Gary has been influenced by some of the greats of accordion playing, such as Joe Burke, Finbar Dwyer and Joe Cooley... but the man has influenced Gary more than anyone would have to be Mairtn O'Connor. The way in which Gary can instinctively back songs and melodies seems to have come from Mairtn's influence. Gary has known Mairtn for many years, and is proud to say that Mairtn has contributed to his debut album, and he is hoping to do justice to a couple of Mairtn's compositions on the CD. Gary has been playing the accordion at concert venues and pub venues throughout the country for many years and for many years people have wondered where they can pick up his album. Well the good news is that it has finally been recorded.....
